

Oh Brother! Who Will Fight for Women's Rights Now That the Democrats Have Scrapped Gendered Terms?

The social justice monster has come full circle and is now devouring its 'Dr. Frankenstein' creator, Robert Bridge writes.

One might be forgiven for thinking, at a time when panic over a pandemic is sweeping the land, and a political battle over control of the White House is raging, the Democrats would take a break from stoking partisan fires. Forgiven or not, you would be thinking wrong.

The social justice monster has come full circle and is now devouring its 'Dr. Frankenstein' creator. That much was clear this week as Speaker of the House Nancy Pelosi, in the name of "inclusivity" and "diversity," tossed raw meat to the radical progressives inside of the Democratic Party by banning gender-specific terms.

The revamped House code of conduct now forbids use of those words that once made a Hallmark card worth sending. Intimate words that evoke familiarity, like 'father, mother, son, daughter, brother, sister, uncle, aunt, first cousin, nephew, niece, husband, wife, father-in-law, mother-in-law, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, brother-in-law, sister-in-law, stepfather, stepmother, stepson, stepdaughter, stepbrother, stepsister, half brother, half sister, grandson, and granddaughter... gone with the wind.

Because any allusion to the binary world of male and female is offensive to about 0.01 percent of the nation's population, lawmakers will be forced to substitute those sex-stained terms with surgically sterile and neutered ones like "parent, child, sibling, parent's sibling, first cousin, sibling's child, spouse, parent-in-law, child-in-law, sibling-in-law, stepparent, step child, stepsibling, half-sibling, or grandchild."

"Amen" and "Awoman"? Really?

I guess the virtue signaling Democrats didn't check the Hebrew etymology of the word "Amen" to realize it has NOTHING to do with gender.

But don't let facts get in the way of a good virtue signal.

Also, didn't those words just get banned?

— Lauren Boebert (@laurenboebert) January 4, 2021

At the same time, the new rules call for the creation of an Office of Diversity and Inclusion, which will be empowered to do, among other things, "direct and guide House employing offices to recruit, hire, train, develop, advance, promote, and retain a diverse workforce..." No chance of anything going wrong there.

So what is really going on here, aside from just more taxpayer-funded absurdity from brain-dead politicians? First, the new House rules represent just the latest broadside against the traditional nuclear family, which requires for its very survival a commitment to biological certainties, like the existence of just two reproductive sexes, known throughout millennia as 'male' and 'female' and denoted by the XY and XX chromosomes, respectively.

These days, however, a newborn baby can no longer expect to be delivered into a sane world where a doctor may freely congratulate its mother and father – excuse me, the parents – on the birth of a beautiful baby girl or boy – excuse me, offspring. That's because "assigning sex" at birth is no longer acceptable to the cancel culture inquisition. That would be oppressing the little bambino with something called 'science' at a time when some politically motivated members of the medical community are insisting that gender is nothing more than a 'social construct,' a fluid concept that can change at any time.

This is stupid.

Signed,

– A father, son, and brother <https://t.co/bG9SIRAy6N>

– Kevin McCarthy (@GOPLLeader) January 2, 2021

In fact, for those who have not been keeping tabs on the escalating madness, there are now dozens of gender types, including male, female, transgender, gender neutral, non-binary, agender, pangender and genderqueer. Can anyone imagine what it must be like for a pimply pubescent to sit through a sex-education class in the midst of such infernal confusion and uncertainty? Moreover, it's the height of irony and arrogance how Democrats are lecturing Republicans about "following the science" on Covid-19, yet they refuse to follow the simplest of all science, that is, the existence of exactly two human genders, male and female. The real 'social constructs' are the other dozens of categories that now wish to claim status as 'genders.'

The presumptuousness and stupidity on the part of the Democrats does not end there. At a time when the Cultural Marxists cannot bear to hear familial terms dripping with sexual innuendo, they are gleefully introducing elementary school children to discussions on alternative sexual lifestyles, like transgender. Most adults have no problem with an individual identifying with whichever sex he or she desires. But would it be asking too much to let the children stick to learning the Three Rs before jumping headlong into an orgy of lifestyles choices? The danger of subjecting young and impressionable children to this pseudo-science is apparent in the increasing number of youth who are now regretting their irreversible sex-change operations.

The prayer to open the 117th Congress ended with "amen and a-women."

Amen is Latin for "so be it."

It's not a gendered word.

Unfortunately, facts are irrelevant to progressives. Unbelievable.

pic.twitter.com/FvZ0ILMDDr

– Rep. Guy Reschenthaler (@GReschenthaler) January 3, 2021

Finally, in what is perhaps the greatest irony of all is that these ridiculous word games only serve to cancel out legitimate movements. Concealed below the shroud of Orwellian doublespeak is a tyrannical word salad that does just the opposite of what it purports to do:

increase "inclusion" and "diversity" in society.

For example, how can one have any sort of conversation on 'women's rights,' for example, when any mention of the fair sex has been outright banned? The question is not a rhetorical one.

"It's the height of hypocrisy for people who claim to be the champions of rights for women to deny the very biological existence of women," former Democratic presidential candidate Tulsi Gabbard, who just might be the last Democrat in DC with a functioning brain, told Tucker Carlson. "Instead of doing something that could actually help save people's lives, they are choosing instead to say 'You can't say mother or father.'"

I would ask for an 'Amen!' at this point, but, thanks to the clown work of lawmaker Emanuel Cleaver, who ended his congressional prayer opening of the very unsexy 117th Congress with the words "amen and awoman," even that simple gender-free term (which simply means 'so be it') is now tainted with foul political intrigue.

With these sort of unforgivable stunts under the belt, the Democrats should be very grateful they have perfected the art of 'winning' elections, otherwise they would probably vanish from the political landscape simply out of lack of doing anything positive for the nation. Indeed, the term 'Democrat' may be on the way out faster than that of 'male' and 'female.'

© 2010 - 2021 | Strategic Culture Foundation | Republishing is welcomed with reference to Strategic Culture online journal www.strategic-culture.org.

The views of individual contributors do not necessarily represent those of the Strategic Culture Foundation.